FORGIVE , if you want to be forgiven.

The book of Sirach tells us very clearly that “the vengeful person will face the Lord’s vengeance”; and the vengeance of the Lord is much more severe than the vengeance of man. But if we forgive our brother the Lord is almost obliged to forgive us!

In the parable of this Sunday, we take the place of the slave who had a debt to his master that was impossible to be paid. A talent in those days was worth ten thousand denarii; so ten thousand talents is equal to one hundred million denarii; which means that no one in his life time would be able to pay such a debt. We are in the same condition of that slave because we will not be able to pay back to God for all that He has given us, not even during the whole life long. To God we are debtors for life and for eternity.

But He is so good that he cancels our debt completely.

Now among ourselves we humans have some minor debts; the one hundred denarii that his friend owed him is peanuts in comparison with the one hundred million that he owed his master; still he forgot all the mercy of his master and sent his friend to prison, for a small debt. That is why the master called him back and sent him instead to prison for the rest of his life. That means that the Lord will judge us with the same measure we judge our brothers. It is up to us! If we are merciful, we will find mercy; if we are vengeful, we will find the vengeance of God.

Forgiveness is a great gift of God both for ourselves and for those who have offended us. Forgiveness is freedom, forgiveness is joy, forgiveness is peace for our hearts. Those who cannot forgive will never be able to find freedom, joy and peace. Let us ask God for this great gift, of being people of forgiveness.
