JESUS AND POLITICS.

In the Gospel of this Sunday, Jesus is put to the test about a very sticky political situation. The Romans were the conquerors and were demanding heavy taxes from the people of Israel, besides having to maintain thousands of soldiers who Rome had sent to control their nation. Should the Israelites pay taxes to the oppressor?

If Jesus was going to say YES, He would have had all the people against Him; if he was going to say No, the Pharisees could have easily brought Him to the authorities for treason as an insurrectionist. So, either way he was going to lose his popularity.

Jesus, aware of the trick, gives a magistral response: "Give to Cesar what is Cesar's and to God (or the Temple) what is God's". In His response we find various principles: 1 – Jesus recognizes the right of the state to make laws and to impose obligations on the people. He asserts that there is a civil authority, which must be obeyed. 2 – He also recognizes the authority of the Temple; that means that even the Church has the right to make its own laws and institutions. 3 – That both institutions are free and independent, and neither one has the authority to infringe on the freedom and authority of the other. 4 – Finally, since "everything belongs to God", and not everything belongs to the State, the religious value has to inspire and motivate all civil institutions, which cannot make laws against the "things" of God. As a consequence, all human institutions are under God and have to follow the original creation of God.

For us today it is very important to keep the two realms, social and religious, separated, but at the same time connected. As much as Christians have the obligation to follow and obey the laws of the State, at the same time the State has to abide by the original values created by God for ALL. Politicians are not above the law of God; on the contrary their first responsibility is to make laws for the common good, which will respect the fundamental values that God has put in the heart of all human beings. The Christian shall give to the state what belongs to it, but the state has to guarantee what belongs to God. In fact, only when the religious and the social work together for the common good, then the integral full potential of each human being will be able to reach its full development.

Young people are requested to sign up for this Vocation Club and the rest of the parish will pray every month for this intention. YOU MAY REGISTER NOW by calling the office or speaking to Fr. Stephen.
