The 24th Sunday in Ordinary focuses on mercy and forgiveness.

Let Go of Anger and Choose Mercy

The first reading today warns against holding onto anger and seeking revenge. It reminds people that wrath and hatred are harmful and do not lead to peace. Anger can feel justified, but it often traps people in bitterness. The reading calls for forgiveness, not because it is easy, but because it is necessary for a life of faith.

Forgiveness does not mean forgetting or pretending nothing happened. It means choosing to let go of resentment and entrusting justice to God. When people hold onto grudges, they carry a heavy burden that affects their hearts and relationships. Releasing that burden allows them to live with greater peace.

Mercy Is a Gift to Be Shared

The Gospel today tells the parable of the Unforgiving Servant. The servant is forgiven a huge debt by his master but refuses to forgive a much smaller debt owed to him. The master is furious and punishes him. Jesus uses this story to teach that those who receive mercy must also show mercy.

God freely forgives, but He expects people to forgive in return. When someone refuses to forgive, they close themselves off from God's mercy.

Forgiveness can be hard, especially when someone has been deeply hurt. But the Gospel challenges people to trust that forgiving others is part of God's plan.

Forgiveness Is a Way of Life

The readings show that forgiveness is more than a single act. It is a way of life. People are called to forgive not just once, but again and again. Jesus tells Peter to forgive "seventy times seven times," meaning there should be no limit to mercy.

Many people struggle with the idea of forgiving someone over and over. They may think it is unfair or that it lets the other person win. But forgiveness is not about letting someone get away with harm. It is about refusing to let anger and bitterness take control. When people hold onto grudges, they harm themselves more than anyone else. Mercy is not just for the benefit of others; it is also for the one who forgives.
